冠遺跡群から見える日本列島における旧石器時代のはじまり

~Was our town the best in Japan?! The roots of Hatsukaichi as told by archaeological sites~

Stone tools excavated at the Kanmuri archaeological site in Yoshiwa, Hatsukaichi City, have been determined to date back approximately 42,300 years, and are considered potentially the oldest stone tools in Japan. This is an extremely valuable discovery for understanding when humans first arrived in the Japanese archipelago.
